

The Upside-Down Poem

You'll have to turn a somersault
If you want to read me upside down;
I'm sure you're as sweet as pepper and salt!
But I know you'd rather smile than frown!

The Upside-Down Man

Author's Topsy-Turvy Note

I am sorry about this error. Our Printer says he has had a very topsy-turvy sort of day. His budgerigar looped the loop into the frying-pan and came out frittered, his pet tortoise turned turtle and ended up in Australia, and he (Our Printer, that is, not the tortoise!) travelled to work wearing his reversible raincoat with the inside inside-outside and the outside outside-inside! His message to all readers is:

You will experience a vertiginous upturn on the next page!
